

Moms, What is the High Calling and Ministry of a Mother?

Moms are the glue that holds the family together.

Moms seek to live out of the love, grace & wisdom of God, teach their children they are God's children.

Moms teach their children who God is, the Bible stories and who God in Christ is for them.

Moms decide they are not their kids' friends but their parents, using their parental authority wisely.

Moms create and install boundaries and limits on their children's activities along with their husbands.

Moms have had experiences showing them why they need to be courageous, without relenting.

Moms look ahead; preparing their children with wisdom, tools for defending themselves against dangers

Moms respect their husbands out of their reverence for the Lord and seek out fellowship with them.

Moms gently help their husbands to look at what needs to be done and support them in doing it.

Moms recognize the image of God in their children, nurture their faith, making them disciples of Jesus.

Moms pray for their husbands and children and teach their children to pray as well.

Moms understand there are times and places to talk and so make the most of those opportunities.

Moms understand there are times it is important to listen to their children and talk things through.

Moms understand many of the reactions their children have are not personal.

Moms watch for signs that something hurtful or deceptive is going on in their child's life.

Moms sometimes lose it or mess up and have the Christian courage to ask for forgiveness.

Moms become attached to and bond with their children so they can together talk about anything.

Moms bind up wounds, seek out the despairing, empathize with hurt and anxieties.

Moms discern when to speak up and when to keep silent.

Adults Saving Kids

Moms know how important it is to take their cares and fears to Christ, to lay them on His shoulder.

Moms cry with those who weep, laugh with those who are having fun.

Moms are not helicopter parents but know when to let go and have the discipline to do so.
